WHEN BABY GOES ON VACATION

Packing for vacation probably isn't high on anyone's list of "like to do" - and a baby may seem to complicate matters. However, being organized and refusing to take more than is needed will simplify both packing and traveling.

First consider where you are going, for how long and how you will get there. Then make a list by categories of things baby will need. Try to put items aside in advance. Keep a separate list of things to pack at the last minute, such as vitamin drops and a favorite toy.

Purchase containers of powder,lotion, cream, cotton and other necessities - enough to last the whole trip. Discuss with the doctor any medications you should have on hand and prepare a "first aid" kit for baby. Be sure to include a thermometer and baby aspirin - just in case.

Take clothing that is comfortable, washable either in a basin of suds or at a launderette and requires no ironing. Doing mini-laundry frequently is better than packing many outfits.

Generally speaking, it is wise to use the same products on the road as at home to avoid any possible reactions. This is especially true with formula and food. Plan to take an adequate supply for baby to allow for any unforseen delay in arriving at your destination. If traveling light is a factor, try to check in advance if the brand of formula is available at your vacation spot.

Disposables - diapers in particular - are a boon to traveling with a baby. Moist towelettes are also useful.

Pack a diaper bag or large over-the-shoulder type bag with the things baby will need for the trip itself. Include changes of clothing along with diapers, medications, toiletries, food, a toy or two, waterproof pad and "burp" cloths.

Traveling by car allows space for extras, such as, a portable crib. However, be sure you have and use a safety seat for baby. If traveling by air, alert the airline in advance. They generally make special efforts to help with boarding and deplaning as well as providing feeding and changing facilities. For train and bus travel, ask about accomodations and rest stops.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Honey Cream Strawberries

2 3-oz packages cream cheese
1 cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup strained honey
1 qt. ripe strawberries, sliced
2 to 4 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 teaspoon imitation brandy flavoring

Combine the cream cheese, which has set at room temperature for awhile, sour cream, and honey with an electric mixer until a smooth blend results. Spoon the mixture into sherbet glasses, custasrd cups, or other stemware. Spread the mixture around the inside bottom and sides of the glasses, or partially around sides if preferred. Place in the refrigerator and chill about 24 hours before serving (this makes the mixture firmer, flavors blend more). Mix the strawberries, sugar, and flavoring shortly before serving. Spoon the berries into the glasses. Top with more honey cream or whipped cream plus a whole strawberry. Makes 6 servings.

Pressure Canner Testing Clinic

Would you like to know if your pressure canner guage is accurate when you are canning this summer? With the high cost of producing food and processing one cannot afford to make mistakes that can be avoided.

The Appomattox County Extension Office will hold a two-day Pressure Canner Testing Clinic on June 16-17. On Monday the time will be from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. On Tuesday one may come from 8:00 a.m. to 10:70 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. All one needs to do is to bring the lid and guage (if removable) of their pressure canner. To test a lid only takes about three minutes. You may drop by the County Extension Office any time during the specified times.

This service is available to everyone, free of cost.

Should you have a question or problem with food preservation this summer, please call or write the Appomattox County Extension Office.
